DETAILED ACTION

This is the initial Office Action based on the 10/688742 application filed on 10/17/2003.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 to 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Freund Patent No. 6,076,174 (hereafter Freund).

As per claim 1, 17, 27, 28, Freund teaches a method of generically controlling one or more resources associated with at least one computing system, comprising the steps of:

evaluating one or more performance metrics associated with the one or more resources given one or more configurations of the one or more resources; (Column 1 lines 55 to Column 2, lines 15: computers and network used for jobs are all examples of resources) causing a change in the one or more configurations of the one or more resources based on the performance metric evaluating step; (Column 2, lines 1 to 25: scheduling is changed for each computer based on performance history. When scheduling is changed, resource is either being used or not used for a particular task.)

wherein the one or more performance metrics and the one or more configurations are expressed in generic formats. (Column 3, lines 10 to 30)

As per claim 2, 18, Freund teaches the method of claim 1, wherein the one or more resources are at least one of real resources and virtual resources. (Column 1 lines 55 to Column 2, lines 15: computer used is one of the resources)

As per claim 3, 19, Freund teaches the method of claim 1, wherein the step of evaluating the one or more generically-expressed performance metrics further comprises determining whether one or more performance goals are being met based on the one or more generically-expressed performance metrics. (Column 3, lines 20 to 45, Column 4, lines 1 to 7, lines 40 to 50: Performance characteristics contains elements for evaluation such as cost, constraints, these corresponds to goals that the scheduler needs to meet when developing scheduling strategies.)

As per claim 4, 20, Freund teaches the method of claim 1, further comprising the step of obtaining the one or more generically-expressed performance metrics from a probe. (Column 2, lines 1 to 10: Performance characteristic database corresponds to a probe)

As per claim 5, Freund teaches the method of claim 4, wherein the probe measures performance of the one or more resources in the context of a particular workload. (Column 3, lines 20 to 55)

As per claim 6, Freund teaches the method of claim 5, wherein the particular workload is a current workload. (Column 4, lines 4 to 35: The network performance is constantly monitored by the Administrator interface; it is the most current.)

As per claim 7, 21, Freund teaches the method of claim 1, further comprising the step of obtaining the one or more generically-expressed performance metrics via one or more measurements of at least a part of an end user performance experience. (Column 3, lines 1 to 5, Column 4, lines 60 to 65)

As per claim 8, 22, Freund teaches the method of claim 1, further comprising the step of obtaining the one or more generically-expressed configurations associated with the one or more resources prior to changing a configuration. (Column 4, lines 7 to 27: prediction based on history occurs before scheduling occurs.)

As per claim 9, Freund teaches the method of claim 8, further comprising the step of categorizing the one or more obtained, generically-expressed configurations. (Column 4, lines 40 to 40: different categories for different scheduling strategies.)

As per claim 10, 23, Freund teaches the method of claim 1, wherein the step of causing a change in the one or more generically-expressed configurations further comprises building a model for use in determining changes in the one or more generically-expressed configurations. (Column 4, lines 40 to 50: The scheduling strategies corresponds to a model.)

As per claim 11, Freund teaches the method of claim 10, wherein the model building step comprises using at least one of a previous performance history and a previous configuration. (Column 2, lines 1 to 15)

As per claim 12, Freund teaches the method of claim 11, wherein the model building step further comprises obtaining performance samples associated with the one or more resources and their one or more current configurations. (Column 4, lines 28 to 40: The administrator monitors the overall performance.)

As per claim 13, 24, Freund teaches the method of claim 1, wherein the step of causing a change in the one or more generically-expressed configurations further comprises instructing the one or more resources to change one or more configurations associated therewith. (Column 4, lines 14 to 27: The scheduler ultimately gives each computer a task to perform, using its resources.)

As per claim 14, 25, Freund teaches the method of claim 1, further comprising the step of storing the one or more changed, generically-expressed configurations. (Column 4, lines 13 to 22: Scheduling keeps updating the schedules, keeping track of what resource is running what task.)

As per claim 15, 26, Freund teaches the method of claim 1, wherein the one or more performance metrics and the one or more configurations are expressed in generic formats in accordance with one or more common generic interfaces.

(Column 3, lines 20 to 50, Column 2, lines 9 to 15)

As per claim 16, Freund teaches the method of claim 15, wherein a common generic interface comprises a Common Interface Model. (Column 2, lines 9 to 15)
